Horizontals and Verticals

Johannes Schwartz

A selection of recent photographs by the Amsterdam-based artist Johannes Schwartz (München, 1970). These photos were made for a site-specific installation that Schwartz contributed to 'Open: A Bakema Celebration', the Dutch entry to the 14th Venice Architecture Biennale, 2014. Schwartz focuses on fragments of buildings and cityscapes, their textures and shapes, traces of time passing, light, wear and tear, a laconic sort of observation of the everyday and its framing if it weren't for its precision. The fragments are recombined into a series of double images as to register the interrelations between the ordinary and the rhetorics of architecture. Shown here are the following buildings designed by Jaap Bakema together with his office Van den Broek en Bakema: church in Nagele, the Hansaviertel tower block in Berlin, town hall of Marl, the housing district of 't Hooi in Eindhoven and the town hall of Terneuzen.
